House of Commons THE MERCHANT OF VENICE.

Monday evening supped with the Im-mortals and to the delight of their patrons handicap is always placed upon any artist who essays one of the great parts from Shakespeare's marvellous gailery. Every theatregoer who has thought about them at all has evolved his own transcription of the characters, has fitted them to the atmos--- phere of his own imaginings and has own desires. So no matter how great the player it is seldem that he or Mooketjee, Horizontal Bar Expert. she realises for the individual patron Miss Viginie. Dashing Equestrienne. has evolved for himself in his private study of the plays. Henry Irving always felt that handicap, so does Hermann Vezin, to our mind one of the linest exponents of Shakespearean character the modern stage has seen; and so we suppose do every actor and actress who essay to interpret with conscientious verity the plays of the great Elizabethan. Taking all this into consideration we have little hesitation in evening was very satisfactory. The whole company acted, with few exceptions, with a fine restraint, giving life and actuality to the noble lines : not mouthing, not gabbling, nor yet ever falling into the one retundo style beloved by Fechter, Siddons and the Victorian school and perpetuated even down to the closing years of the nineteenth century and infused with thoughtfulness throughout. Mr Charles Vane, as Shylock, presented a capital study of the immortal Jew. Never once did he over emphasise his bitter hated of Antonio and his fellow-Christians; never once did he allow his rage to tear itself to tatters; while his hopeless despair and utter breakdown in the Court scene, was one of the most natural manifestations of baffled and defeated humanity we have ever seen upon the stage. His exit was perfect.

Next to him in bearing off the honours of the evening comes Miss Blanche Forsyth, who made a most attractive Portia,

From the moment when she began to show her hopes and fears as Bassanio advances to make his choice of the caskets, till that glorious, merry moment when she turns the tables upon him by returning him his ring, she ii led the stage whenever she appeared upon it. As lover, as Chatchine, as advocate, as mischievous humourist, she was almost the Portia of our dreams. An excellent foil was Miss Helen Russell as Nerissa; with her stately pre-sence and dignified delivery no wonder she resented Gratiano's dubbing the masquerading lawyer's clerk as "a little scrubbed boy." Jessica, Miss Joan Harcourt, was sweetly played, though we can never quite forgive her plundering her father to feather a lover's nest. To TO-MORROW (WEDNESDAY), Nov. 17, Mr Henry Dallas fell what has always appeared to our mind the unsatisfactory part of Antonio. We suppose Shakespeare intended him to be the fine flower of the merchant princes of Venice, but to our way of thinking he has not made a success of the character. Of course much must be forgiven Antonio; his great love for Bassanio tempted him to enter into the bond, but then did he not at the moment confidently expect to come out the better of the Jew in the transaction, to get the use of Shylock's money for nothing ? Then when he escapes the great hazard of his life through l'ortia's specious pleading and most transparent legal quibbling, he scarcely displays the magnanimity towards Shylock which the circumstances demand, he "rubs it in" too much for our liking. But this notwithstanding, Mr. Dallas made a very notable Merchant. The light hearted, debonnair Bassanio, the young fashionable, the bon wivant, the gay spendthrist, purified in the end we hope by the love of noble woman, was excellently pourtrayed by Mr Douglas Vigors; while as Gratiano, the saucy tongued, Mr E. Spencer Geach was capital. We could have wished him less exuberant in the trial sectio. His sarcasms would have been far more effective is saides, instead of being shouted aloud to the world at large; he should have gone in for rapier play; not bludgeon work, for his victim was already quivering, may falling, before the shattering blows delivered to tongued Doctor from Padum. Of the minor characters, Mr Gordon McLeod made an offective and lover-like Lorenzo Mr Harry Esmond a sober-paced Tubal; while the clowning of Mr Harry Neville as Launcelot Gobbo, to the excellent pantalooning of Mr W. Baker as Gobbo senior, was about the best we have seen anywhere. Greatly daring, the Company justified themselves in every way, and their rendering of "The Merchant of Venice" must be numbered among their Hongkong triumphs. Meedless to say the play was well and of the best, while the celerity with which the scenes followed one another was by no means the least of the many achievemonta of a notable evening To-night will be given . SOORTISE SETTING

(Prom Our Own Currespondent.) EDINDURGH, October 14.

During the stay of the Court at Balmorals the King presented colours to a detachment from the Queen Victoria School for Sons of Sailors and Soldiers, Dunblane. The ceremony was private, and conducted strictly according to military etiquette. The detachment was accompanied by Colonel M. G. Wilkinson, Commandant, and the consecration service was read by the Rev. C. COLE PROPRIETORS of TAKA Ritchie, Chaplain to the School. The SIMA, OURI, MUTABE, HOJO, commandant thended the King's colour to His Majosty, the senior boy receiving it on bonded knee. The Adjutant (aptain D. Mathers) then handed the School colour to his Majesty, and the second senior boy received it, also on bended knee. The King briefly addressed the boys, Colonel Wilkinson replied on behalf of the School, and the coremony concluded with the Royal salute. . Colonel Wilkinson was decorated by the King with > the Victorian Order. .The King also decorated four fishermen of Pharmy Island, Orkney, with the silver medal for gallantry in saving life at sea. On Monday, the King left Balmoral for London. It is announced that his health has been greatly benefitted by his stay in the Highlands. In the Royal forests, the King and his guests accounted for ninetythree stags, and they were very successful on the grouse moors.

LORD ROSEBERT AND THE SEAFORTH HIGHLANDERS.

Lord Rosebery opened the new club started by the Seaforth Highlanders Association in Edinburgh, -- a club on advanced lines such as have no equal in any other part of the country. His short speech was one of those delicate rhetorical mosaics in the construction of which he is so perfect a master. Heconfessed that helaboured under disabilities for such a duty: "I am not a soldier, I am not a Highlander, I am not a Mackenzie," but he comforted himself with Excellency the Governor, of the following the thought that "the Sesforths do not belong to the Highlands alone, but are the property of Great Britain, aye, and of the Empire." In a historical sketch of the regiment, he recalled that the first voyage which the 72nd made to India lasted ten months, and caused 247 deaths from scurry alone, thut the meagre skeleton rendered a good account of itself." And "what was their movered? They were deprived of the kilt. The exploration of that mysterious denudation, or rather deprivation of super-clothing, -had never been made 277 clear; but I suppose it was one of those wild and wanton changes in uniform in which the War Office in all periods of our history has taken such pleasure." .The history of regiment, he went on to say, "is not the history of colonels and officers alone, but the history of the rank and file; it is the regimental traditions which make it illustrious, which make it formidable in the field, and where weapons and numbers alone will not avail, give it glory and confidence." There was a parade of 360 veterans of the Seaforths, 20 of them survivors of the Crimes and Mutiny, and when he thanked the Association for the privilege of opening the Club, he "thanked them much more for the privilege of walking down the ranks, and seeing that splendid gallery of history, that superb record of military service which was contained in the medals on their breasts. Lord Rosebery then opened the Club with a silver key, presented to him by ex-

A SUPPRAGIST DEMONSTRATION. The Suffragists are very much in evidence 1132 in Scotland at the present tinte. On Saturday they had a demonstration in Edinburgh, a pageant procession followed by a mass meeting in the Waverley Market. Great crowds witnessed the "show," as it was called. The prevalent feeling seemed to be one of curiosity. Of eathusiasm there was little or none. It was matter of general remark that if the women onlookers took up an attitude of opposition the men were good-humouredly passive. The demonstrators were evidently confined to members of the well-to-do middle class; the working women were absent, three or four fisher girls in their picturesque Newhaven dress being a marked exception. At least one half of the processionists carried bannerettes, and there was a forest of larger flags all of course of the party colours, -purple, white, and green. Many of the women wore purple hate, with green or purple dresses, and white sashes inscribed with the words "Votes for The chief marshal was Mrs General" Drummond, who was military cap, spanistes on hor lers, and a lung green overcost from the waist. A number of ladies were on horseback, but only them sdopped Mrs Drummond's of riding. Mrs Pankhurst had a haffeur, and half a dozen youngplayed the begpipes. Immense had been expended on the banners, o of them bearing the same inseri o "What's guid for John is guid for " was an obvious hit. Others read. ho's for us, for him we are;" " Cry her, that's the way to be served; langest day; has an end; " and gain without pain." tableaux, most of them arranged lorries, were ingeniously conceived. the characters represented were illiard, the heroine of Ancrum Moor. l in armour; the Countees of Buchan, in a grim cage, with the inscription, ined in a cage outside Berwick eastle owning the Bruce when no man " the Solway Martyra, who were ed in the Firth for their religion: gills, the founder of Balliof College uilder of Dumfries Bridge; Jennie s with her stool; Midside Margie er bannock; Mary Queen of Scota Macdonald; and Helen Macgregor. geant was well stage-managed. E KILTED BATTALION FOR LEEDS, sublic meeting has been convened at in connection with the movement to kilted battalion, but the corresponbetween the promoters and the Riding County Association of Teris does not encourage the hope of to success. Colonel Mends, Secrethe Association, writes, - "You are bly not aware that the Territorial is formed in brigades and divisions ormer consists of four battalions, more nor less; and in this Riding e. battalions, have been formed. fore there is no room for an one, nor would there be any ood of permission to raise one granted, even if the County Associaconsidered such a course desirable. oes on .- "It is a matter of regret Scotamen living in Leeds, and ently making a livelihood in the should feel themselves unable rve in the existing corps formed hose amongst whom they have homes." Mr Macleod, one of the ters of the battalion, replies that men in Leeds have joined the existing to a greater extent than, native-born thiremen, and asks if it is not posto form a Scottish brigade? Colonel answers,-"I don't think the idea sing a Scottish Brigade is feasible, or which would be entertained by the Council." PROFESSOR BAINY. literary event of the week is "The of Principal Rainy," by the Rev. gie Simpeon. The critics unanimously t as one of the best of recent bio ies, and one reason for this favourable on is that the limitations of the great iastic are as freely indicated as those inent qualities which gained for him title of "a Prince of the Church." impson does not hesitate to give the ons of Rainy's antagonists. He tells on one occasion he met Dr Robertsmith, the hero of the most famous dern Scottish heresy hunts, and said to him,-"You're a young mangoing into the Free Church-don't Rainy-he's a Jesuit." Of course, ook is mainly interesting to Scotsmen; is a fine picture of, one who filled an ctionally difficult position; no Presian leader, certainly no Primate, had ik more difficult than he had to lead Free Church, with the ultra-orthodox e one end and the higher critics at

CHANG CHIH-TUNG AND A WESTERN UNIVERSITY.

LORD WILLIAM CECIL during his recent visit to North China in the interests of the Oxford and Cambridge committee who desire to erect a Christian University in the Middle Kingdom, had an interview with the late CHANG CHIH rund, whose death the more influential portion of Chinese Society is still sincerely deploring. The aged statesman was found living amid most austere surroundings. Indeed, Lord WILLIAM expresses the opinion that the room in which the interview took place could not be considered adequate for the parlour of one of his working-men parishioners. His Lordship, goes on to say, "the walls were of plaster unadorned, the floor was of brick not too well appealed to Europeans as an honest laid, and I could not help feeling that if OTHER KINDS IN GREAT my friend the medical officer of health at Hatfield saw some of my poorer pari- his countrymen, bred in the patriarchal shioners living in such a room he would have immediately brought the matter their ancient civilization and the de before the district council, and the fender of their ancient faiths. SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) EDINBURGH, October 14. GENERAL NEWS.

The King has been pleased to approve of the appointment of Lord Hamilton of Dalzell, O.V.O., one of His Majestr's Lords in Waiting, to be a Knight of the Order of the Thistle, in place of the late Lord Tweedmouth.

Mr T. R. Buchanan, formerly Under Secretary for India, intimates that he will scrimmage which ensued, however, the bill not contest East Perthehire at General Election. For some time past he has been in delicate health and unable to attend to his Parliamentary duties. The rejoicings in connection with the coming of age of the Marquis of Stafford, eldest son of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, have continued for nearly three weeks. Every parish in the County of Sutherland has had its sports, processions, illuminations, and bonfires. Lord Stafford is well known in the district; and was at Golspie Public School before being sent to He has travelled in India and Coylon, was for a time lieutenant in Lovat's | scoring, the final result being :-- Camerons. Scouts, and is now in the Scots Greys. On the day before he received knighthood, Gen. R. S. S. Baden-Powell reviewed -five thousand B. P. Scouts in Glasgow, and told them he had been summoned to Balmoral to make a report to the King on the principles and progress of the movement.

with his regiment, and will next month assume duty at Edinburgh as captain on the General Staff, with charge of musketry in the Scottish command.

This month's issue of the London Scottish Regiment d. Gazette, contains a Territorial training song of good rhythm, written by the hon colonel, the Duke of Argyll. The dominant note of it is the importance of We'll fight it out with a joyous shout, Trained hosts shall our armies be." There is also a song called "The Hodden Grey," set to music.

As was to be expected, the excavations that are being made in Parliament Square. Edinburgh, for the foundations of the new Chapel of the Knights of the Thistle, which is being built in the south-east angle of St Giles' Cathedral, have brought to light relics of a past age. The site of this new chapel, just off the High Street, is on historic ground. A large number of b nes. including a skull, have been found about seven feet below the surface. Although now a paved square, this used to be a graveyard, indeed, it was the earliest in Edinburgh; and a few yards from the spot-where the workmen are engaged there is a small—bronze plate lot in among the granite sets marking the resting-place of John Knox. A large apartmen, with solid stone walls has also been laid bare. It has an arched roof and a large fire-place, the marks of smoke being still visible in the chimney, Apparently the apartment was one of the underground cellars of the old "Luckenbooths," the little shops that were clustered against the walls of the Cathedral in former days. The Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. Greenock, have sunched a scout cruiser to be called the Glasgow. The Anderson, W. N. Edwards, Lieut Bagnall, vessel is the first of five of a type which Lieut Green and R. O. Hutchison. marks a development on the original scout Bondices class.

The Dundee whaling fleet has had an unfortunate season. Another ship, the Pandora, is reported crushed in ice floes in Davis Straits. Happily the crew is safe.

These teams mee yesterday afternoon before a large crowd of spectators. Strange | follows :-to say, they had opposed one another in South Africa, when the Camerons beat the Buffs in the semi-final for the Army Cup. Yestarday's sides were :-

Buffe :- Black : Cloke, Ruler : Dare. Wren, Tampsett; Fitzpatrick, Houckham; Taylor : Brewster, Barker. Camerons :- Hunt ; Ross, Lumsden

Broadwood, Bissett, Campbell; Docherty, Laurie; Kenneth; McNell, Marshall. .The Buffs set the ball rolling and early gave the visitors defence, something to do. For a time the play was confined to midfield, but the Camerons, eventually finding their land legs, settled down to work in Hopkins ... earnest, and a shot by Docherty caught Armstrong 11 Black napping, and put the visitors one up. As the result of a pass from Laurie, McNeil scored the second goal, and before many minutes had passed the same player added yet another to the total. For a time it seemed as if the Scotchmen were going to rout the home team completely, and Black was kept busy keeping his goal intact. Brewster and Taylor carried the ball into the visitor's territory, but without result and half time was called with the scores :- Camerons, 3; Buffs, Q.

In the second half the game was more evenly contested, and want of training seemed-to-tell-on-the visiting team. An individual run by Taylor was promising but the shot was stopped by Hunt. In the the found a resting place in the net; Browstor, being the scorer. From the kick-off the Camerons again visited the Buffs goal area. and as exciting a scene as one could wish to see on a football field took place. The ball was somewhere mixed up among for 42, 9 for 45, 10 for 55. eighteen of the players for about a minute. the home side doing their best to clear, when, amid wild excitement, Black cleared his charge. Play continued to be in favour of the Camerons, but there was no further

INTERPORT SIDE SELECTED TO PLAY ... LOAINET BHANGHAL

The Selection Committee have now announced the Team to play against Shanghai. I understand that the side selected a mild surprise by overcoming the Club by will take the field if the wicket is hard and there may possibly be alterations.

Capt. Garnett, R. E. O. Bird, A. C. E. Elborough, R. E. H. Oliver, Lient. Bagnall, W. N. Edwards, Lieut. Anderson and Lieut. Green. Lieut. Green's inclusion will probably come as a surprise some, but there is no doubt in the absence of H. Hancock he the best "keeper" available. So far he has been out of form this season but doubtless will soon get into stride. Elborough's wicket-keeping on Saturday was not good; he was quite at sea with Garnett's bowling, and missed one opportunity of stumping, at Military Tour in Japan, accounting for over 20 wickets, and he has had plenty of experience with both Garnett's and Baird's bowling.

I should like to have seen Hutchison included in the side, instead of either Edwards or Anderson. Hutchison is a very safe field, quite a useful change bowler, and after he has been in for 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour is as dangerous a bat as any one.

The Team selected, on the whole, will meet with the approval of most Cricketers who have carefully followed the games on Over a week ago we published the total the Ground, and is probably one of the > W. C. D. Turner: has played in more Interport Oricket than any other member of the side. Excellent bat, has been off form during the last two years, but seems to have recovered this. Bad field.

> Capt. H. H. C. Baird : the best all round player in the combination. Fine free bat, good bowler, right hand medium pace, and an excellent field. Captained the Military Team touring in the North this summer, and has had plenty of experience of good cricket.

T. E. Pearce : a most consistent bal Excellent fielder. Has played in Interport Cricket for the last 5 years, and shares with Bird the distinction of being the only players in the team who met the Straits in very pretty style Quite se good as any other keeper we have had when in form. Has made plenty of runs, and likely to do better on fast wickets.

Capt. Garnett: will "probably account for most wickets for the team provided the wicket keeps hard and fast. Bowls slows with plenty of spin either way. Fair bat and very safe field.

The game last Saturday on the Cricket Ground proved of interest to the followers of the various players with ambitions to the Interport Team. The Probables included 9 of the side now chosen to play against Shanghail Anderson was absent. and Capt. Beasley is the one left out. The latter is a very poor field, and this will probably have accounted for his exclusion. as he has played some very patient and careful innings this season, and if the batting had to be strenghtened at the expense of the bowling and fielding he should certainly be included.

I understand the first Match is not likely to take place until next Monday, as the Shanghai team will not arrive until late on Thursday afternoon, the Empress being a day late. The Straits Team will probably arrive late the same afternoon, so that neither of our Visitors are likely to prepared to play on the Friday morning.

Saturday only one came off. It is true that the Club made an occasional run or two, but there was always such a big disparity between the eleven that detailed observations are not merited. the vacancy fairly well. -

Before leaving the subject of this match a word should be penned as to the actions of the Club linesman. He was constantly interfering, either with his tongue or by his signals to the referee, which came with irritating frequency, There is a limit to a lineaman's functions, but this gentleman seemed desirous of over-riding the players, the referee and everybody else. It was obvious that he had no deep knowledge of the offside rule, for he went the length of signalling one of the Buffs offside when a legitimate goal was scored. He was, however, rightly ignored by the referee. A man is not necessarily offside if when he receives the hall there are less than three defenders in front of him. Perhaps our friend wasn't aware of this demonstry fact.

As to championship prospects, it is yet

The only circumstance to note in regard to the Buffs is that two new men were seen in the ranks. HOMOMONO TIME THE STATE

The hundred thousand dollars which the Chinese have contributed towards the cost of the proposed University at Houghong are a sufficient proof of their interest in the new project. That the Chinese are liberal with their wealth when once their interest is aroused is known to all who have experience of our Far Eastern settle ments where the Chinese who are British subjects most do congregate; but the scheme of a University in Hongkong is primarily a British idea. It is the Chinese, however, who will chiefly benefit from it and the new enthusiasm in the Celestial Empire for the Western learning will probably bring very many pupils thither from every province of the mainland. Exactly what effect the doctrines of Europe may fitted throughout with Electric Light. have upon the Chinese mind it is difficult to predict. The political teaching of John Stuart Mill has not been altogether a benefit to India; it is possible that Herkert Spencer may not be an unmixed blessing PRA to China. The theories of government prevalent in the hisst are so fundamentally different from those held by advanced political philosophers in this country, however, that they may fail of effect for that very reason. There is the possibility that. they may be considered merely as academic exercises by the Chinese students at Hongkong; for it will not be easy for new doctrines to be inculcated in a land which has hardly changed during five thousand years. - Globs.
